SG IS FUND - GLOBAL GROWTH ALLOCATION PORTFOLIO

AUGUST 2026

MANAGEMENT COMMENTARY

Economic data released during August confirmed the resilience of both the U.S. and European economies despite a more restrictive financial environment. In the United States, activity remains supported by robust household consumption and a still-solid labour market, although some leading indicators point to a modest slowdown in growth. In the Eurozone, economic activity continues to surprise on the upside, driven by the strength of the services sector and a gradual improvement in domestic demand. Spain remains one of the key engines of European growth, while Germany is showing signs of stabilisation after several challenging quarters.

This economic resilience is nevertheless accompanied by inflation levels that remain above central banks' targets. In the United States, headline inflation stands at 3.4% year-on-year, while core inflation remains elevated, particularly within the services sector. In the Eurozone, inflation reached 3.3%, supported by persistent pressures on energy prices. Geopolitical tensions in the Middle East continue to fuel volatility in oil markets and sustain inflation expectations. Against this backdrop, both the Federal Reserve and the European Central Bank have maintained a cautious and hawkish tone, signalling that policy rates are likely to remain at elevated levels through year-end in order to firmly anchor inflation expectations.

Fixed income markets experienced another challenging month. Ten-year sovereign bond yields now stand at 4.75% in the United States, 3.32% in Germany and 4.18% in France, representing increases of at least 50 basis points since the beginning of the year. Beyond inflation concerns, investors remain focused on the fiscal trajectories of major developed economies as well as on political uncertainties on both sides of the Atlantic.

Equity markets broadly advanced during the month. In the United States, the S&P 500 (+2.72%) and Nasdaq (+4.18%) benefited from a rebound in technology stocks and solid corporate earnings. In Europe, major indices continued to move higher, supported by resilient economic activity (Euro Stoxx 50 +1.03%). The CAC 40 was the notable exception, declining by 2.06% as domestic political risk re-emerged. In Asia, Japanese equities recovered (MSCI Japan +2.36%).

Against this backdrop, SGIS FUND GAP Growth delivered a strong positive performance of +2.87% during the month, bringing its year-to-date return to +12.83%.
